The Traverse Micro Erosion Meter is a high precision instrument to measure erosion caused by physical or meteorological phenomena with a very exact positioning system based on oblique coordinates.

The TMEM is not a standard product, but we have the capabilities of designing and manufacturing the support structure depending on the user specific dimensions. The indicator’s precision will depend on the requirements of our customers.